

This is a good exercise to do and discuss with your group at some point.

Give them some time alone to consider these questions and perhaps have one or two that you are going to focus on for an evening. It can be a good practice to have people sit with this when the group starts and when the group ends. Collect them after the first round and give them back to each individual when they fill their's out the week the group concludes.

Questions: Imagine God Asking These of You

- 1 What do you want? (Jn 1:38)
 - 2 What are three words that describe Me for you right now?
 - 3 What are your most favorite gifts I've given you?
 - 4 What do you like most about the work I've given you to do?
 - 5 What do you like best about how I made you?
 - 6 What is the hardest thing about being you?
 - 7 My concerns for you currently are?
- What has been one of the hardest or most painful times in your life that we have shared?
